The Twin Cities is going to blow away X Games fans from across the world, but to be honest, the biggest reason we're jacked up has everything to do with Stillwater's own magical skateboarder Nicole Hause, who spent the last 8 years skating her heart out to become one of the WORLD's (that's right) women top ranked skateboarders. We've always loved sports but once we met Nicole we got so excited that we decided to sponsor her at this summer's X Games! Look for updates about what we'll be doing to celebrate Nicole and the X Games and how you'll be able to buy Nicole's new apparel.

X GAMES FACTS & FEATS

START

1995 | Newport, RI

The inaugural Extreme Games took place in June in Newport, Rhode Island with the following competitions: Bungee Jumping, Eco Challenge, In-Line Skating, Skateboard, Sky Surfing, Sport Climbing, Street Luge, Biking, and Watersports.

1996 | Providence, RI

Extreme Games moved down the road to Providence, Rhode Island and rebrands itself as the X Games.

1997 | San Diego, CA

X Games moved to the west coast for the first time – hosted by San Diego, California.

1999 | San Francisco, CA

The X Games moved north to San Francisco, Calif. After attempting the trick for 10 years, Tony Hawk landed the first-ever 900 in Skateboard Best Trick. Moto X made its debut in 1999 and phenom Travis Pastrana was awarded a near-perfect score of 99.0 in Moto X Freestyle.

2000 | San Francisco, CA

Moto X Step Up made its first appearance. Dave Mirra became the first BMX athlete to land a double backflip at the X Games.

2001 | Philadelphia, PA

X Games Seven headed back east to Philadelphia, PA where the event hit a major milestone – a first-time indoor venue at the First Union Center. This was the first time X Games took place inside and outside an arena. Moto X Best Trick made its debut.

2003 | Los Angeles, CA

X Games made its third move, this time back to California and landed in Los Angeles with an un-precedented contract lasting through 2009.

Becoming the youngest ever X Games gold medalist, Ryan Sheckler landed all of his tricks and won Skateboard Park at just 13 years old.

2006 | Los Angeles, CA

Travis Pastrana landed the first-ever double backflip in competition. Rally Car Racing made its debut, and Pastrana captured the first gold with his co-driver Christian Edstrom.

Freestyle was Pastrana's third gold of the 2006 X Games, making him just the third person in X Games history to score three gold medals at a single X Games event. BMX Big Air made its debut.

2008 | Los Angeles, CA

BMX Freestyle Street, Moto X Speed & Style, Women's Moto X Racing, BMX Freestyle and Skateboard SuperPark were added to X Games for the first time.

2002 | Philadelphia, PA

Mike Metzger made X Games and Moto X history with his back-to-back backflips. Mat Hoffman landed the first no-handed 900 in Vert.

2004 | Los Angeles, CA

In Moto X Best Trick, Chuck Carothers successfully landed his body varial, the "Carolla", to win gold. SuperMoto and Skateboard Big Air made their X Games debut.

2007 | Los Angeles, CA

Moto X Best Trick unveiled a new winner and a new trick - "The Volt." Kyle Loza became the first X Games rookie to take Moto X Best Trick gold with his body varial.

X GAMES FACTS & FEATS

2010 | Philadelphia, PA

For the first time ever, X Games 16 broadcasted nine hours of competition live in 3D on ESPN3D. Skateboard Real Street and Game of SK8 made their debut. In the Rally Car competition, Tanner Foust showed his dominance by winning both the Rally Car Racing final and the inaugural Rally Car Super Rally final.

2012 | Los Angeles, CA

Jamie Bestwick completed the second six-peat in X Games history, winning BMX Freestyle Vert gold by 14 points —the largest margin of victory in BMX Vert history. Garrett Reynolds earned the fourth five-peat in X Games history in BMX Freestyle Street, and remains as the only athlete ever to win the competition at X Games. Skateboard Big Air athlete Jagger Eaton became the youngest athlete in X Games history to compete at 11 years, four months old.

2009 | Los Angeles, CA

With his win in Moto X SuperMoto, Ivan Lazzarini became the first European to win a gold medal in any X Games Moto X competition. Blake "Bilko" Williams became the first international and the first Australian Moto X Freestyle gold medalist. Ashley Fiolek became the first profoundly deaf athlete to win any medal at X Games when she earned the top spot in Women's Moto X Super X in her debut at the X Games.

2011 | Los Angeles, CA

Matt Buyten set an X Games and world record, winning Moto X Step Up by clearing a height of 37 feet. Jackson Strong set a record by landing the first-ever front flip during the Moto X Best Trick final. In the debut of Moto X Enduro X, Maria Forsberg and Taddy Blazusiak took home the first-ever Enduro X gold medals.

Foz do Iguaçu | Brazil

Surprise winner Kyle Baldock earned two gold medals in one day, taking home gold in BMX Freestyle Park and Dirt competitions. Jamie Bestwick extended his gold medal streak to seven, winning BMX Freestyle Vert by nine points. Bryce Hudson became the first rookie since Jeremy McGrath to win Moto X Step Up with a height of 31 feet.

Munich | Germany

Lasek and Burnquist continued their domination, Lasek extending his streak to three, while Burnquist earned his fifth consecutive Skateboard Big Air medal and passed Dave Mirra for most X Games medals in history. In the first-ever Mountain Bike Slopestyle competition at X Games, Brett Rheeder took home the gold with his final run. In Moto X Speed & Style, Mike Mason once again edged out the competition with his arenacross background, earning his third gold in his last three starts.

2013

X Games adds three new event locations to the schedule:

Foz do Iguaçu, Brazil
Munich, Germany
Barcelona, Spain

Barcelona | Spain

Skateboard Vert veteran Bucky Lasek won his second consecutive gold medal after a nine-year hiatus from the top spot on the podium. Jamie Bestwick became the first athlete in X Games history to complete an eight-peat in BMX Freestyle Vert. With his fourth consecutive Skateboard Big Air gold, Bob Burnquist tied BMX athlete Dave Mirra for the most overall X Games medals with 24 each. In the same competition, Mitchie Brusco landed the first 1080 in Skateboard Big Air. Barcelona native Laia Sanz won her second consecutive Women's Enduro X gold medal in front of a hometown crowd. At just 12 years old, Alana Smith became the youngest X Games medalist when she earned a silver medal in Women's Skateboard Park.

X GAMES FACTS & FEATS

2013 | Los Angeles, CA

Bucky Lasek became the only person at X Games to win all four 2013 gold medals in one discipline. In Moto X, Taka Higashino claimed gold for the third straight X Games Freestyle Moto competition, becoming the second person to win three competitions in a row. Vicki Golden became the first woman to compete in a freestyle Moto X event at X Games, winning bronze in the Best Whip competition. Nate Adams became the most decorated X Games Moto X rider of all time with 18 medals after winning the Speed & Style final. Elliot Sloan dethroned Bob Burnquist in the Big Air finals earning the top spot on the podium joining Burnquist and Lasek as the only skaters to claim a medal on every X Games podium in 2013. Leticia Bufoni won her second straight X Games Skateboard Street gold medal. Tanner Foust captured the inaugural Gymkhana GRID event and brought his overall medal count to eight, making him the most decorated X Games Rally athlete. Nyjah Huston won his fourth X Games Street gold medal, tying him with Paul Rodriguez for the most in Men's Skateboard Street history—eight medals overall.

2014 | Austin, TX

X Games celebrates 20 years of events and heads to new host city in Austin, Texas, for the inaugural X Games Austin 2014 event. Maintaining his domination, Jamie Bestwick claimed his ninth consecutive BMX Vert gold medal. In Skateboard Vert, 20-year-old Jimmy Wilkins claimed the top spot, becoming the youngest gold medalist ever in that discipline. Tom Schaar won his first ever X Games gold in the America's Navy Big Air competition, becoming the second youngest gold medalist in X Games history at age 14. Pedro Barros became the second athlete in X Games history to earn at least seven consecutive gold or silver medals in the same discipline after securing gold in Skateboard Park. Apdaly Lopez won the inaugural Stadium SUPER Trucks competition at just 19-years-old and became the first male from Mexico to win gold at X Games. Nyjah Huston continued his domination in the Monster Energy Men's Skateboard Street finals, clinching his fifth Skateboard Street gold. X Games Austin 2015 also featured a world-class music lineup over three days at Circuit of The Americas. More than 40 musical performances took place over four stages, featuring artists Kanye West, The Flaming Lips, Gary Clark Jr. and many more.

2015 | Austin, TX

X Games celebrated its second year in Austin, Texas at the Circuit of The Americas (COTA), kicking off the 21st action-packed year with over 200 invited athletes across 20 disciplines. The evening excitement began with the debut of Harley-Davidson Flat-Track Racing at COTA while the Moto X Step Up competition took place in Downtown Austin in front of the Texas State Capitol. Bryan Smith won the first-ever Harley-Davidson Flat-Track Racing gold medal, while Ronnie Renner claimed his third Moto X Step Up win in row to become the first athlete since Tommy Clowers in 2002 to claim a three-peat in that discipline. Seven-time X Games medalist Vince Byron won his first BMX Vert gold, unseating nine-time BMX Vert gold medalist Jamie Bestwick, ending the longest winning streak in X Games history. Skateboard veteran Bob Burnquist took home gold in both America's Navy Skateboard Big Air as well as in the debut of Skateboard/BMX Big Air Doubles event with partner Morgan Wade for a total of 30 medals, the most in X Games history. Defending gold medalist Colton Satterfield made BMX history and earned his second GoPro BMX Big Air medal by landing the double flair on the quarterpipe – the first rider to do so on the Big Air ramp. Moto X Quarterpipe also made its debut at X Games Austin where France's Thomas Pagès won gold by throwing a bike flip on his second run. World-class musical performances took over the new Super Stage at COTA, bringing Nicki Minaj and Metallica to X Games. They were joined by performances in the Austin360 Amphitheatre featuring The Glitch Mob, Kid Ink, Joywave, Talib Kweli, Deltron 3030 and Pennywise.

2016 | Austin, TX

X Games wrapped up a three-year run in Austin. The LifeProof Moto X Step Up competition ended in a tie with Australian Jarryd McNeil and the Czech Republic's Libor Podmol clearing the mark. Michigan's Jared Mees broke away from the back and edged out Kenny Coolbeth, Jr. for gold in the Harley-Davidson Flat-Track Racing final. English skater Sam Beckett took his first ever X Games gold in Skateboard Vert, while BMX legend Jamie Bestwick walked away with his 13th gold in BMX Vert. Australian Josh Sheehan's took gold in Coors Light Moto X Freestyle with an incredible double back flip on his final jump. After six years of competing at X Games, Ryan Decenzo took home his first gold in Monster Energy Skateboard Street. Sixteen-year-old Pamela Rosa impressed judges enough to take home her second consecutive gold medal in Women's Skateboard Street. The Toyota BMX Park event was owned by Dennis Enarson, who after five previous silver medals added a gold to his collection. In the inaugural Dave Mirra BMX Best Trick competition, Kyle Baldock from the Gold Coast of Australia took the golden pedal award with a massive 720 double tail whip, following an emotional tribute to the X Games legend. BMX action continued with 7-time gold medalist Garrett Reynolds adding another to the vault with a stellar performance in BMX Street. BMX action heated up with the revolutionary riding of France's Tom Pages taking gold at the Fruit of the Loom Moto X QuarterPipe. Popular musicians All Time Low and blink-182 rocked the crowd into the night at the Austin360 Amphitheater.
